

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TELLS OF THE PROSPERITY OF COUNTRY

Recommends Legislation for the Trusts—Fair Treatment for Capital and Labor—Reciprocity Treaty With Cuba—Peace in the Philippines—Scarcity of Officers in the Navy—Review of National Affairs—Suggestions for Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Roosevelt's message is as follows:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives: We still continue in a period of unbounded prosperity. This prosperity is not the creature of law, but undoubtedly the laws under which we work have been instrumental in creating the conditions which made it possible, and by unwise legislation it would be easy enough to destroy it. There will undoubtedly be periods of depression. The wave will recede; but the tide will advance. This nation is seated on a continent flanked by two great oceans. It is composed of men of the descendants of pioneers, or, in a sense, pioneers themselves; of men winnowed out from among the nations of the Old World by the energy, boldness, and love of adventure found in their own eager hearts. Such a nation, so placed, will surely wrest success from fortune.

"As a people we have played a large part in the world, and we are bent upon making our future even larger than the past. In particular, the events of the last few years have definitely decided that, for woe or for weal, our place must be great among the nations. We may either fail greatly or succeed greatly, but we can not avoid the endeavor from which either great failure or great success must come. Even if we would, we can not play a small part. If we should try, all that would follow would be that we should play a large part ignobly and shamefully.

WE REJOICE.

"But our people, the sons of the men of the Civil War, the sons of the men who had iron in their blood, rejoice in the present and face the future with high heart and resolute will. Ours is not the creed of the weakling and the coward; ours is the gospel of hope and of triumphant endeavor. We do not shrink from the struggle before us. There are many problems for us to face at the outset of the twentieth century—grave problems abroad and still graver at home; but we know that we can solve them and solve them well, provided only that we bring to the solution the qualities of head and heart which were shown by the men who, in the days of Washington, founded this government, and, in the days of Lincoln, preserved it.

GREAT FORTUNES.

"No country has ever occupied a higher plane of material well-being than ours at the present moment. This well-being is due to no sudden or accidental causes, but to the play of the economic forces in this country for over a century; to our laws, our sustained and continuous policies; above all, to the high individual average of our citizenship. Great fortunes have been won by those who have led in this phenomenon of industrial development, and most of these industrial fortunes have been by doing evil, but as an incident to action which has benefited the community as a whole. Never before has material well-being been so widely diffused among our people. Great fortunes have been accumulated, and yet in the aggregate these fortunes are small indeed when compared to the wealth of the people as a whole. The plain people are better off than they have ever been before. The insurance companies, which are practically mutual benefit societies—especially helpful to men of moderate means—represent accumulations of capital which are among the largest in this country. There are more deposits in the savings banks, more owners of farms, more well-paid wage-workers in this country now than ever before in our history. Of course, when the conditions have favored the growth of so much that was good, they have also favored somewhat the growth of what was evil. It is eminently necessary that we should endeavor to cut out the evil, but let us keep a due sense of proportion; let us not in fixing our gaze upon the lesser evil forget the greater good. The evils are real and some of them are menacing, but the prosperity—the progress of our gigantic industrial development. This industrial development must not be checked, but side by side with it should go such progressive regulation as will diminish the evils. We should fall in our duty if we did not try to remedy the evils, but we shall succeed only if we proceed patiently, with practical common sense as well as resolution, separating the good from the bad and holding on to the former while endeavoring to get rid of the latter.

RIGHT TO REGULATE TRUSTS OF COUNTRY

"In my message to the present Congress at its first session I discussed at length the question of regulation of those big corporations commonly known as trusts. In doing an interstate business, often with some tendency to monopoly, which are popularly known as trusts. The experience of the past year has emphasized, in my opinion, the desirability of the steps I then proposed. A fundamental requisite of social efficiency is a high standard of individual energy and excellence, but this is in no wise inconsistent with power to act in combination for aims which can not so well be achieved by the individual acting alone. A fundamental base of civilization is the indivisibility of property; but this is in no wise inconsistent with the right of society to regulate the exercise of the artificial powers which it confers upon the owners of property, under the name of corporate franchises, in such a way as to prevent the misuse of these powers. Corporations, and especially combinations of corporations, should be managed under pub-

PHIL. M. WALSH HURRIEDLY LEFT CLIENT'S HOME.

Conductor Robert Gaunce Tells all His Family Troubles to Judge Hall.

Robert L. Gaunce, conductor of a Seventh street local train, who is being sued for a divorce by his wife, Clara M. Gaunce, today gave testimony before Judge Hall in refutation of the charges of cruelty preferred against him. Considerable amusement was afforded by the witness' originality of expression.

When asked by Attorney C. G. Dodge if it was true, as his wife had testified, that he frequently went on "tears," he replied:

"No, sir, that is not true. I have not taken a drink for eight years. I used to drink occasionally and I have been full on occasions. I was full one Christmas. In fact, I got loaded the Christmas on which we were married."

"Is it true that you told your wife that you would dance on her grave?" asked Judge Hall.

"No, your honor, I never made such a statement in my life. One night my wife was ill and called me to her bedside. She asked me if I would be sorry if she died. I told her I would give $10,000 before I would have her die."

Gaunce then paused to wipe away some tears that were filling his eyes. "I loved my wife," he added in a subdued voice. "In response to a request to relate what took place at his home when he met his wife's attorney, Phil M. Walsh, there Gaunce said:

"That was Sunday evening, September 14th. When I went to the house it was all lighted up. You would have thought it was the Palace Hotel lit up for a banquet. Every jet in the house was burning. As I entered the hall I saw a man hat on the rack. At first I thought it was my son-in-law. I opened the parlor door and there I saw this honorable Mr. Walsh sitting on the lounge by the side of my wife. They were there alone and the door was shut."

"Did you say the door was shut?" asked Attorney Walsh.

"Yes, shut," replied Gaunce. "Shut, shut," he repeated with emphasis. "I requested him to leave, and as he did not move fast enough to suit me, I caught him by the nap of the neck and assisted him. He landed on the sidewalk in front of the house. When he got up, he shook his fist at me and said, 'You will pay dearly for this.' He came back with a policeman, who asked my wife if she wanted to be arrested. She said 'no' and the policeman said 'good bye.'"

"I was mad then," continued Gaunce. "I ordered my mother-in-law to leave the house. What do you think of it Judge, there were five people in my house that night conspiring to swear my life away. Wouldn't that make you mad? I went out in the yard and there under a peach tree I found my son-in-law and daughter. He came at me and I landed on him, knocking him to the ground. Well, you ought to have had seen him. You could have played a game of seven-up on his coat-tails as he was leaving the yard."

"Then my daughter came at me, with her hands stretched out as though she wanted to scratch my eyes out. I ordered her to leave the house and never return. I never wanted to see her again after she ran away and got married without my consent. She was of age and had no business under my roof. I had been supporting her two years after she became of age. Honestly, Judge, I have had a hard time with my family. I have treated my wife well and never missed sending her a turkey every Thanksgiving and Christmas, until the last Thanksgiving, and she did not invite me to eat the turkey with her."

Judge Hall then asked Mr. Gaunce on the charge that her husband had forsaken her for a woman named Alice Turner, as the evidence did not support the allegations in this respect. The case is now being tried on the charges of desertion and cruelty.

Mr. Walsh is attorney for Mrs. Gaunce and he went to her home at her request to consult her about the evidence in her case.

SHOT WHILE CRAWLING THROUGH A WINDOW

CARROLL, Iowa, December 2.—James R. Faust was shot and killed near here while attempting to crawl through a window in the residence of his brother, Charles Faust. Charles Crone, who fired the shot, has surrendered and asserts that the victim had designs upon the life of the brother, whom, he says, he had once attempted to kill. Crone is a nephew of Charles Faust.

Several years ago James Faust disappeared after serving a term in the Iowa penitentiary and was rumored as dead. A year ago he appeared at his parents' home at Carroll, Iowa, and said that he had just escaped from an insane asylum at Toledo, Ohio. After his disappearance from the Iowa penitentiary Faust said he had been kidnapped and taken to various hospitals as a madman until he finally escaped.

VENEZUELA MUST PAY HER DEBTS.

Germany is Firm But Must Have Amount of Claims.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—The published statement that Germany's claims against Venezuela amount to $15,000,000, is the correspondent of the Associated Press is officially informed, incorrect. While the greater government is not yet ready to publish the details of its demands, persons who have seen the papers say the total is about $2,000,000. President Castro represents to Germany that Venezuela has little credit abroad, that the country is just emerging from a civil war during which planting and industry were partially ruined and that therefore no matter how much Venezuela may wish to satisfy German claims, it is obviously impossible. Hence an agreement on the subject must provide for deferred payments. "The seizure of the customs house, thereby depriving the government of an important means to administer the country, would add to the internal distress and disorder. While President Castro's proposals are not disclosed, there is reason to believe that they contain the emission of bonds at a moderately high rate of interest with some sort of guarantee (that if the interest or the installment of the principal are defaulted certain Venezuelan customs houses may be taken over by Germany).

Nothing is known here of the plans of Isaac N. Seligman of New York for floating a Venezuelan loan. He has not approached this government in the matter. There is no disposition here to proceed with harsh measures toward Venezuela, if, for the purpose of creating a building boom, the German government is fully committed to the intention to obtain ample satisfaction. The claimants are constantly urging the government to press the collection of the amounts due them, not only because of the same involved, but it is represented, in view of the fact that the long delay has rendered the position of Germany in Venezuela more and more vexatious. Therefore, it is claimed, the government must strike and strike hard, in order to properly assert the rights of Germans.

As in the previous suburban trials, the boodle fund will be brought into court—in this case, the entire $135,000—and exhibited to the jury as official proof of intent to bribe.

The witnesses for the State are: J. K. Murrell, E. E. Murrell, John Helms, Otto Schumacher, George P. Robertson and William M. Tamblin, members of the combine in the last House of Delegates; Charles H. Turner and Philip Stock, representing the Suburban.

WANTS TO AMEND THE TRUST LAW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Senator Cullum today introduced a bill to amend the Sherman anti-trust law. It prohibits interstate commerce in articles produced by trusts, the penalty for violations being a fine of from $500 to $5,000.

MILLIONAIRE ON TRIAL FOR BRIBERY.

Another St. Louis Man Goes Before the Bar of Justice.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—The case of Henry Nicolaus, millionaire, brewer, indicted for bribery, in connection with the Suburban Street Railway franchise legislation, the seventeenth of the "boodles" trials, was called in Judge Ryan's branch of the Circuit Court today.

Circuit Attorney Folk expects the case to last two days. The testimony will be in part the same as was used in the trials of Delegates Julius Lehmann, Harry A. Faulkner and Emilie Bersch, who have been convicted of perjury.

The specific charge against Nicolaus is that he signed notes for $135,000 in which the Suburban Company's safe deposit bonds were raised. The other signatures to the notes, as the State expects to show, were those of Charles H. Turner and Ellis Wainwright.

Turner will be a witness for the State; Wainwright, who was abroad at the time when an indictment similar to that against Nicolaus was found against him, has not returned to St. Louis since.

As in the previous suburban trials, the boodle fund will be brought into court—in this case, the entire $135,000—and exhibited to the jury as official proof of intent to bribe.

SUPERVISORS BUY A LOT.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 2.—The Board of Supervisors today ordered the purchase of the vacant lot, southeast corner of Market and St. James streets, adjoining the jail, for the purpose of erecting a building costing $150,000 to be used for justice courts, insane hospital and other purposes.

Mrs. Campiglio So Telegraphs the Chief of Police.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 2.—Mrs. P. F. Campiglio telegraphed Chief of Police Wittman from Indianapolis this morning that she firmly believed that her daughter Carlotta was slain by the hand of another at the Knickerbocker apartment house on Saturday night last. In her message Mrs. Campiglio begs the local department not to rest content with the theory of suicide now offered, but to sift the matter down and seek the slayer of her child.

Every detail of the unfortunate girl's life in this city will be proved to the fullest depths and the actions of Robert Homagray, his brother Conway T. Homagray and the woman "Rose" who has been identified with the latter, will be brought from the time they reached the State line to date.

MESSAGE IS READ.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Immediately after the journal was read in the Senate, Russell A. Agler was sworn in as Senator from Michigan. The President's message was then presented and read.

FRUIT GROWERS MEET IN SAN FRANCISCO

Mayor Schmitz Gives the Delegates a Little Advice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The twenty-seventh annual convention of the California Fruit Growers' Association convened in this city today and will continue in session until Friday afternoon. The attendance is fairly good and President Cooper expects that many more fruit growers will arrive today and tomorrow to take part in the work of the association. When the first session was called to order this morning, prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. George C. Adams.

Mayor-Schmitz, who was introduced to the convention by President Cooper, was heartily received.

The Mayor, after a few warm words of welcome, ventured some advice to the convention, advice which he said was based on his recent experience gathered in a trip through the whole length of the country. In the first place, no other product should be sent East bearing the name of California, and secondly, California fruit products should be brought before the people of the East properly marked as such. They could easily maintain a market for their product if those merits were properly made known.

"Why, in New York," said the Mayor, "I saw oranges labeled as from Florida, but I ascertained with very little trouble that the oranges were from California. The oranges were sold as Spanish, and time and again when I asked for California olive oil, I was pressed to take some foreign olive oil product instead of the splendid oil which the presses of this State make."

Concluding, the Mayor urged the fruit growers to continue their good work, to get together and know no North or South, but to label all their products "California," that the markets of the world might see for themselves what this State could do.

A vote of thanks to the Mayor was passed, after which Professor C. J. Wickson was unanimously chosen vice-president of the convention.

President Blinnwood Cooper regretted, in submitting his annual report, that he could not speak so favorably as he had last year. He referred to the complaints of the orange growers and to those of the producers of olives and olive oil and said that it was better that fruit growers should face the situation squarely. The outlook was not hopeful, he said, in view of the increased production and stationary condition of the market. The only relief to be found was in co-operation. There were four points to be dealt with in this convention:

First—The centralization of the delivery of fruits.

Second—The railroads.

Third—The adulteration and substitution of fruit products.

Fourth—Inspection.

These subjects would be discussed in various papers to be submitted during the convention by different members.

After an address by Professor Benjamin I. Lee, president of the California State University, the appointment of committees and routine business was entered into.

MANY PEOPLE WITNESS SCENES AT THE CAPITOL.

General Alger Takes His Seat—President's Message is Read—Business in the House.

WASHINGTON, December 2.—There were two events of interest in the Senate today—the swearing in of General Russell A. Alger as a Senator from Michigan and the presentation of the President's annual message.

Before the Senate convened, Mr. Alger appeared on the floor and was heartily congratulated by his new colleagues. The family of the new Senator with a number of personal friends, occupied seats in the reserve gallery to witness the ceremony, while members of the Michigan delegation in the House came over from the House for the same purpose.

Immediately after the reading of the journal Mr. Taft presented the credentials of Mr. Alger and asked that the oath of office be administered to him. The new Senator was then escorted to the desk of the President pro tem, Mr. Faye, by Mr. Burrows, where the oath was administered.

Mr. Alger's seat is on the extreme right of the Democratic side of the chamber and was completely hidden from view by huge floral pieces. It was necessary to remove them before he could sit down.

Messrs. Platt of Connecticut and Jones of Arkansas, the committee appointed by the Senate to join a similar committee from the House to notify the President that Congress had assembled, reported that they had performed this duty, whereupon Mr. Barnes, assistant secretary to the President, delivered the President's message to Congress. Printed copies had been furnished each Senator and they closely followed the reading of each document. But few Democrats were in their seats when the reading of the message began.

Senator Quesada, the Cuban minister, again occupied a seat in the diplomatic

BOYS STONE A CHINESE.

SAN LEANDRO, Dec. 2.—The San Leandro authorities are looking for the boys who stoned a Chinese laundryman last Sunday and severely bruised him.

The Chinese is employed by Quong Lee, a laundryman, whose place of business is located just this side of the concrete bridge. The man claims that while walking along the street he was attacked by a crowd of boys who threw stones at him. One stone struck the Chinese in the mouth, inflicting a wound that required several stitches to close. The man also sustained numerous injuries about the body from the stones thrown by the boys. He is confident that he can identify the boys that injured him, and is making a careful investigation of the matter.

An extension of sixty days has been granted the E. B. and A. L. Stone Company, in which to complete the work on the road between San Leandro and the Tank Station.

Work on this road has been in progress for some time, and when completed will be a great improvement for the "Franklin's Bath" Company that recently played an engagement at the Macdonough Theater in Oakland.

BOYS STONE A CHINESE.

SAN LEANDRO, Dec. 2.—The San Leandro authorities are looking for the boys who stoned a Chinese laundryman last Sunday and severely bruised him.

The Chinese is employed by Quong Lee, a laundryman, whose place of business is located just this side of the concrete bridge. The man claims that while walking along the street he was attacked by a crowd of boys who threw stones at him. One stone struck the Chinese in the mouth, inflicting a wound that required several stitches to close. The man also sustained numerous injuries about the body from the stones thrown by the boys. He is confident that he can identify the boys that injured him, and is making a careful investigation of the matter.

An extension of sixty days has been granted the E. B. and A. L. Stone Company, in which to complete the work on the road between San Leandro and the Tank Station.

Work on this road has been in progress for some time, and when completed will be a great improvement for the "Franklin's Bath" Company that recently played an engagement at the Macdonough Theater in Oakland.
